The elegant Fairmont San Francisco has an enviable location perched at the top of Nob Hill, at the only spot in San Francisco where the city's cable car lines meet. The central location makes for easy access to the Financial District, Union Square and Fisherman's Wharf, and the elevated setting provides unforgettable panoramic views over this much-loved city. The Fairmont, which will celebrate its centenary in 2007, is still very much one of the most prestigious places to stay in San Francisco.
